DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it includes that which may be implied (see below). Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

Art Unit: 3624

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-6 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Specifically, the claims include nonfunctional descriptive language, not related to the method of bid management being claimed in the independent claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Silverman et al. (US 5924082).

A method for managing contract bidding of chemical synthesis on a computer network, the method comprising the steps of: receiving a customer's request for quotation for synthesis of a chemical structure; evaluating potential suppliers based upon at least one factor provided by the customer; identifying eligible suppliers for bidding on the synthesis; releasing the request for quotation to eligible suppliers; receiving bids from eligible suppliers; evaluating the bids and providing the customer with a list of qualified suppliers; and receiving a customer's choice of qualified supplier for the synthesis (see abstract, figure 2, col. 3 lines 55-60, col 4, lines 4-12).

Art Unit: 3624

Specifically as to claim 2, see above citations for claim 1, as the various needed factors are included in the concept of bid criteria.

Specifically as to claims 3 –6 and 9, see above rejection for claim 1.

Specifically as to claim 7, wherein the releasing step occurs over the Internet, see abstract.

Specifically as to claim 8, including the step of establishing a bonding contract, see col 7, lines 54-65 “agreement”.

Specifically as to claim 10, see above rejection for claim 1.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. McMahon et al. (US 2001/0034726) disclose a method and system for automating quote generation. Scott et al. (US 2002/0198818) disclose a method and apparatus for efficiently generating electronic requests for a quote.
